LECTURE

WRITING A SCIENTIFIC PAPER – comments of journal editor Mark Kachanov, Tufts University

*Editor-in-Chief of the "International Journal of Engineering Sciences" and of "Letters in Fracture and Micromechanics".
School of Engineering, Tufts University and Nizhny
Novgorod State Technical University (Megagrant winner).*

The lecture is motivated by the observation that many papers submitted by Russian authors, while containing interesting results, are not well written. Basic structure of a paper will be discussed.

OTHER ISSUES: INCREASING ONE'S CITATION STATISTICS
WRITING A REVIEW
CHOICE OF A JOURNAL: TRADITIONAL VS "OPEN ACCESS" JOURNALS

IN ADDITION, TWO OTHER TOPICS WILL BE DISCUSSED – IF THERE IS AN INTEREST TO THEM:

MAKING A PRESENTATION
BEST STRATEGY TO FIND A VISITING RESEARCH
POSITION IN THE WEST

LOOKING FORWARD TO SEEING YOU!
